

:: MediaLectern

On stage in the conference rooms you will find our media lecterns.

Your presentation will be started by our technicians and then the media lectern's integrated microphone, TFT-display and trackball will assist you in your lecture.

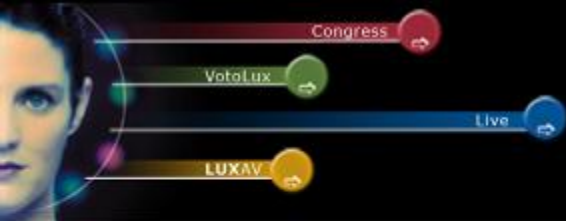

The trackball replaces the common mouse function. Navigating through your presentation simply works by clicking its left or right button.

To advance in your presentation you just have to click on the left button of the trackball. With the right button you can return to the previous slide.

The blue ball in the middle of the trackball replaces the laser pointer. By rotating the ball a red cursor is moved on the display – just like with a mouse.

Your presentation will be visible on the main screen as well as on the media lectern's display in front of you. The images are always identical.

You will never have to turn around to the main screen to see what the audience sees.

If you would like to skip several slides at a time, do not hesitate to contact our assisting technicians.
